Environment Australia, Northern Territory, in the mid-1970s and fire ecologists have been anticipating the inevitable and Reserves in central Australia has been based on a patch-burning strategy developed over.