Estampas De La Raza: Contemporary Prints From The Romo Collection

Carlos Jackson

While much attention has been paid to Chicano painting, Estampas de la Raza: Contemporary Prints from the Romo Collection is one of the first books about the unique heritage, history, and experience of contemporary Mexican American and Latino artists. Estampas de la Raza: Contemporary Prints from the Romo Collection chronicles the unique heritage, history, and experience of contemporary Mexican American and Latino artists. Estampas de la Raza: Contemporary Prints from the Romo Collection introduces recent gifts of contemporary Mexican art to the McNay Art Museum. Ester Hernandez, Sun Raid, and other contemporary Mexican artists are featured in this book. The book includes prints made during the Chicano movement from the early 1960s on, many of them printed at Self Help Graphics in Los Angeles.
