Measuring Quality in Planning: Managing The Performance Process

Matthew Carmona; Louie Sieh

Quality measurement in health care is the process of using data to evaluate the performance of health plans and health care management. Performance indicators show whether a client consultation process for quality services improvement is effective. When planning, managing and evaluating a consultation, performance indicators are used to assess the quality of services provided.