some phenomenological reflections on itinerant media devices. In this book, an international team of authors explore themes of depth and surface, of real and conceptual space and of human/machine interaction.